

1st Bug—Is this a grave yard, and are those tombstones?

2nd Bug—Yes, one of them ought to read "At Rest at Last."

THE COQUETTE.

A pretty coquette, as so many men know,
 In love is a dangerous thing,
 For she always has so many strings to her bow
 And so many beaus to her string.

SUMMER BORED.

Some "Rural Rests" are run so slick,
 Town folks get taken in,
 And find the mosquitoes are most too thick
 And the mattresses most too thin.
