BATTER UP!

By: Ellie Armstrong

The softball team swung into the season with a strong will to compete and an affinity for jamming out to music to liven up their spirits.

"I want to remember the team and how much we have improved and become closer through the year.

I think we learned what it means to be committed this season and how to push through adversity.

None of us will forget the Hamilton game when we won 10-8 playing them after we got run ruled playing them the first time! All of them were in awe of what just happened. Our true tradition is to always do our "hey" circle before games," said Mallory

Comerford, 12.

"Some life lessons I've learned from doing softball is to never look back at your mistakes and to always look forward. During softball you're never perfect and everyone will make mistakes. The best thing in the game is to keep your head up and to not look back on your mistakes and try even harder. Take that mistake that you made and have it motivate you to make your next play," said

Regina Zamudio, 11.

Lindsey Stevens, 12, said, "The season has been different since we lost really good seniors last year and we all had to learn different positions and work as a team."
