

Spending her summer in Israel, Nancy Kidnocker, 11, studies archeology. Kidnocker had a passion for archeology, and she got to experience it firsthand. She thoroughly enjoyed living in the Israeli community.

Melissa Mandell-Brown, 11, and a friend hold on for the wild ride. Students enjoyed various water activities throughout the summer, including tubing and waterskiing. "In the summer, I live at my lake house in Georgia. We spent a lot of time on the water, sunbathing on the boat. The lake was gorgeous!" said Anna Hulett, 12.

Jordan Rabin, 10, climbs the alpine tower at the Goldman Union Camp Institute. Climbing the tower was one of the many activities offered at GUCL. "I get so excited for camp every summer. Since I go second session, I spend the first month of the summer waiting to leave," said Rabin. Each session was four weeks long, and campers were immediately immersed in the magic of camp. Rabin spent every summer away at GUCL.

Jessica Hartman

q) What did you do during the summer?

a) I went to Cincinnati Ballet Summer Intensive.

q) How frequently did you go?

a) For six weeks, five days a week, seven and a half hours a day.

q) Did you enjoy spending your time that way?

a) Yes, very much. I love to dance, and we got to do a variety of types of dance, not just ballet. At the end of each three-week period, we got to perform, and I love to perform.

"It was fun life-guarding, except for the annoying spoiled kids. Plus, now I have money for the school year."

-Mitchell Heltman, 12
