

organizations

Edited by Becca Nitzberg and Alyssa Eastes

Organizations kept students very busy with all the activities they offered. With choices from Band to Shakespeare Club, Scrabble Club to Buffet Club, there was a club for everyone. The year started out with more clubs than the school has ever had, but, unfortunately as the year progressed, some folded. However, most clubs thrived. DECA was bigger than ever, and, as always, the Band program made beautiful music. Changes were made in the Choral department with a new director, Ms. Dawn Voss-Stone. A new club, Buffet Club, was met with excitement and was a great way for students with different interests to meet and hang out while eating great food. Overall, clubs were a great way for students to participate in activities and build relationships with other students with similar interests.

Band students raise fans' spirits while playing at half-time at a football game. Marching band was hard work for those involved, but the members loved making music on and off the field. Band not only played for games and pep-rallies, but it also participated in competitions throughout the year.