

At every AQT match, there are three games with three rounds in each. Each round, however, is different from each other. In total, 210 questions are asked and answered about a multitude of topics in one match. "It's supposed to be stuff that you theoretically could have learned in your classes, but a lot of times it's not," said Kasey Lowe, 12.

Senior Joshua Willis enjoys being a part of the AQT team because "it's a really great community [where] making mistakes is accepting. It's kind of basically just trivia club; it's not necessarily that competitive." Even though it may not always seem competitive, the AQT team still performs well. The varsity team tied for second in the GMC, and the JV team remained undefeated throughout the whole season.

It was a small group so we were all very comfortable with each other. One time, Pierce [Bruner, 12] wrote a rap for a rap battle while we were accidentally taken to the wrong school for a match."
