

Adaptive Art Class

adaptive art

"In 2016 Adaptive Art began with a week of art camp during state testing days when SHS did several testing days in a row. It was for students with special needs that were excluded from state testing."

"When they work in their favorite ways, we discover new means of communication, new positive behaviors, and resultantly, really beautiful artwork."

-Elise Williams

pancake day

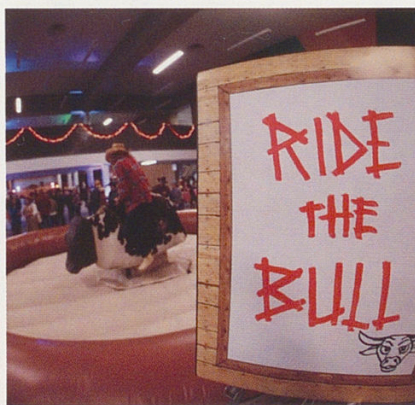

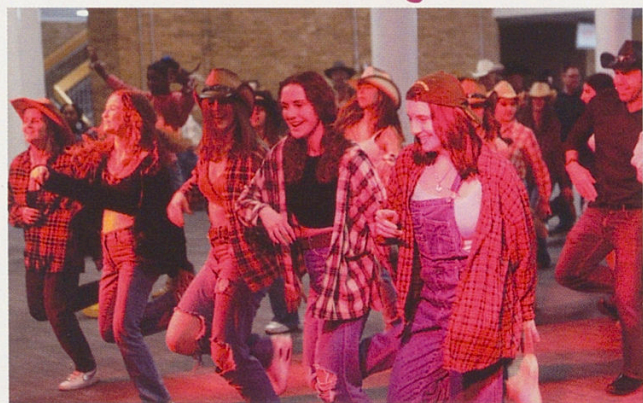

"This pancake day was probably my favorite so far. Along with performing music with several groups, we had the opportunity to rehearse with the composer of a song right before its world premiere. As usual, the pancakes and art did not disappoint and I got to end the day by pieing a member of the band council. I'm really glad that we were able to share all these experiences with the whole Sycamore community."

Hayden Spyrou, 10

odd couples

"It was great to see everyone, especially the parents, give the mechanical bull a whirl, and it was just a great atmosphere. It was especially cool that Tennessee Whiskey was the slow dance song because all the parents knew it."

Adam Linser, 11