

Trends

As the saying goes, "If the trend is to be different, where does the circle end?" Well, we on Mini-Mag all agreed that it doesn't, so just be yourself.

There is nothing wrong with the fact that people dress the same, but sometimes diversity is needed. It would be nice to buy an outfit or sweater, for once, and not see it on half of your friends at school. This is unavoidable. There is never going to be just one of what you own (that is, unless you knitted the sweater yourself). So the bottom line is, forget trying to avoid dressing like your friends. Either that or stop shopping at the mall.

Don't always be concerned if your shirt doesn't match your socks or if your lipstick doesn't go with your jeans. Wear what you want to wear, be who you want to be!

Listed below are some of the things that we here on Mini-Mag viewed as being some of the more "cooler" trends for the 1989-90 school year. We also chose some things that were only to be seen on boppers at Forest Fair Mall (also known as Mall Rats). We hope you agree with what we decided and if you don't that's okay. We know you're just trying to be different.

by Amy Allee

From the 60's to the 90's Keds sneakers will never be outdated.

Commonly idolized by the young generation, the general high school consensus remains that the New Kids are out.

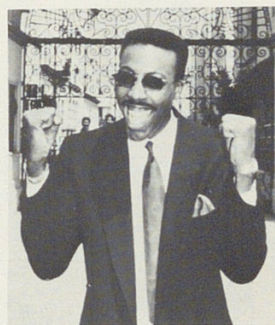

Focus In: On Fashion In Out

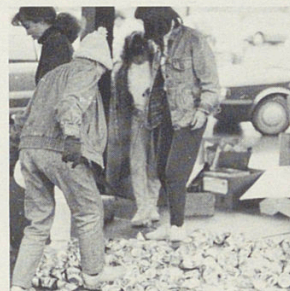

Nintendo
Frozen Yogurt
Sunscreen
Tom Cruise
Skyline
Depeche Mode
No Bangs
R.E.M.
Army Surplus Clothes
Rugby Clothing
Earthtones
Crystals
Sporto Boots
Eastland Bucks
Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles
Arsenio Hall
Keds
Recycling
Oprah Winfrey
The Simpsons

Atari
Ice Cream
Tanning Salons
Rob Lowe
McDonald's
New Kids On The Block
Gravity-defying Bangs
Donnie Osmond
UNITS
Izods
Blue Eyeshadow
Add-A-Bead Necklaces
Galoshes
Saddle Shoes
The Smurfs
Johnny Carson
Zips
Throw-Aways
Geraldo
The Brady Bunch

And here's . . . Arsenio! Hall is the new leader of night time T.V.

Kathy Kelley and Tara Pace increase American's awareness by recycling aluminum cans.

SNAPPY TOMATO PIZZA

489-4472
11424 Montgomery Rd.
at the corner of Kemper Rd.