

MORP

Under a sea of light green and blue pastel toilet paper, the 1986 MORP was initiated with all the trash and filth that has made this dance a popular event among Sycamore students. Wearing their favorite torn jeans and the most disgusting shirts seen this side of the world, Sycamore students gyrated to the playing of the Waiting. Beyond a doubt, this year's MORP was bloody fun, revelry heaped upon merriement, something which graduates will look upon with fond remembrances. For those still fortunate enough to be able to attend next year's MORP look your worst and keep in mind that if it smells like fish don't eat it.
