

Two seasons down and one season to go. Spring, the final weeks of school until the much awaited and beloved spring break. Then when students return to Sycamore, the days are anxiously counted until school is finally out for the summer. Things begin to slow down as the doldrum of high school begins to take its toll on studying. Seniors plan their crazy and extravagant pranks, while unfortunate underclassmen prepare to take exams. Another year is on the brink of completion, and the memories are held. Seniors take these with them wherever they go, and the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen continue to build on them as they finish high school.
