

Of Mice And Men

This spring's theatrical production was the poignant and touching tale of friendship and compassion, Of Mice and Men. Utilizing the many talented actors and actresses in the Theater Arts Group, the play was performed with a believable and enjoyable energy and vigor. The hours of hard work and practice definitely were revealed by the great performance which was put in by the actors. With Sam Womelsdorf and Ted Jackson taking the lead roles of George and Lenny respectively, the play was fitted with two fine actors, who along with Christian Behm, Rusty Rouse, Kevin Crapsey, Curtis Smith, and Juli Risenfield ended the 1986 season in a grand manner.

