

1. Getting ready for the dance, Megan Jones, 9, and Jill Romansky, 9, pump up the audience for an awesome half time. Performing dances that are learned from the UC dance team gives the girls added excitement to show the fans some real moves. 2. Prepping for the kick, Jones, got her kicks in line. Keeping in line with the girls is important to impress the crowd. A smile from ear to ear is the "game face" of the season. 3. Shakin' what she's got, Jennie Grossman, 9, moves like a professional hip hop dancer. While dancing to "Pink" she shows what she knows and makes her way to the next formation.

"Performing at half time was fun and the support of the fans made dancing even better!" Alex Hunter, 9.

HALF TIME WILL NEVER BE THE SAME!

Mixing the dance grooves with Janet Jackson and P. Diddy, the girls audience was impressed. The team combined hip hop, jazz and kick lines for a variety of shows. This was the first year that we had seen the Flyerettes have a JV squad. The program gave more girls a chance to be on the team. The girls had excellent dances during the half times of the basketball games. Although during football and some of basketball, the Flyerettes all danced together. This gave a chance for teams to bond. The girls had an intense season with almost a game to perform at ever weekend. The squad danced a different dance every time to ensure that the audience was impressed. Coach Alysha Vondrell supported the team and kept up with more ideas. The girls went to several dance camps including, UDA and UC clinics. These camps really helped out the season with awesome dance moves and time for the team to get together. With all different ages on the team, bonding took time. Hard work and dedication was what makes the squad good. Having workout times on Monday, practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and games on Fridays; a Flyerette's job was never done.

Taking a break from turns, Jennie Grossman, 9, Katie Hooper, 12, and Jill Romansky, 9, taught the girls some technique. The girls showed up with so much excitement and anticipation, that teaching them was such a good experience for the team.

"Dancing to a variety of songs and moves, made half time fun. Mixing moves and learning new dances was exciting," Heather Hess, 10.
