

1. Adding her own flavor, Alex Hunter, 9, dances to the beat. Since it is her first year on the team, she proved her place every performances. As the fans get louder, her moves get stronger.

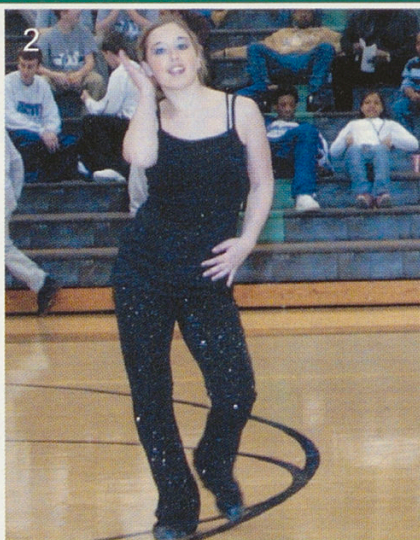

2. Prepping for the kicks, the girls amaze the crowd with the high kicks the Flyerettes are known for. The Christmas Kick Line is a tradition amongst the team. "Run, run, reindeer" along with Santa telling the audience, "You better watch out" kept the girls performance the best it's ever been. 4. These girls aren't going anywhere, as they shook up the grass at the football game. Using the song from P. Diddy, he gave them hot ideas. This dance was combined with both teams of Flyerettes.

3. Shaking it up, the girls dance to Janet's, "Come on Get Up!" This dance is one of the first for the season. While the crowd gets pumped up, the girls are still dancing to the beat.

1. Doin' the moves, Olga Milaychev, 9, and Ashley Chorpennig, 9, dance to Pink with all the under class girls. Sharing their half time is nothing compared to the final product. Everyone knowing the dance from the UC camp is an added bonus for the girls to look their best. 2. Showing some attitude, Heather Hess, 10, dances her best to represent her school. Hess not only dances for her school, but in her studio as well. Showing her support for the team she helps out with new ideas and fresh steps.

"Dancing was really awesome. We really worked hard to look our best!" Jennie Grossman, 9.

3. Chowing down, the girls talk about what their plans were for that evening. Before games, the squad gets together to get pumped up and ready to dance. Mostly each team mate has to host a dinner at their house. 4. Huddling up before half time, the team listens to Coach Vondrell as she pumps them up to do their best. Getting warmed up and practicing the dance before the game gets the girls better prepared to amaze the crowd.
