

Kendall Mrozek
Madeline Mudronja
Sean Mulholland
Thomas Mullikin
Robert Murphy
Ashley Murray
Rachel Myers

Yuto Nakanishi
Benjamin Nava
Jasmine Nazek
Kennerly Newlin
Hisashi Nishizu
Yoo-Ri Noh
Patrick Norwine

Joey O'Gara
Joseph O'Toole
Vincent Oh
Nadezhda Oliynyk
Jaime Orent
Brant Osborne
Sarah Osner

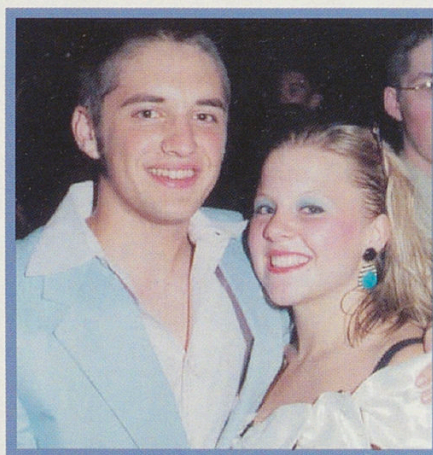

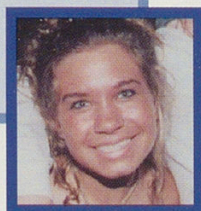

Jason Pardee
Joel Parker
Dexter Payne
Megan Pena
Andrea Perlman
Alexandra Perrotti
Robert Peters

Individual style

By Kim Andrews

I wouldn't say I have any particular style, I just like to wear unique clothes that I am comfortable in.

-Annetta Phillips, 11

Arriving at homecoming in perfect style are Cameron Rademacher, 11, and girlfriend Mandi Nesbit, 12. Rademacher took this opportunity to dress outside the box in a light blue 70's style suit and an open-chested white collar shirt.

Trends, trends and more trends. In a school where it seems like everyone dresses the same, it can be daunting to step out of the norm and dare to be a little different. But several students at our school really have their own unique look. Of these select few, two students in particular stand out: Cameron Rademacher, 11, and Annetta Phillips, 11. These two students have taken an alternative route to the trendy Abercrombie/Wet Seal look. Phillips's style is a crisp bohemian look with a twist of prep. She wears relaxed, comfortable clothes characterized with the "hippie" look, while still always looking sleek and pulled together. Her look reflects her own laid-back personality. As for Rademacher, his favorite accessory is his homemade rope belt, but he also sports creative and unusual shirts, vests and sweaters. Rademacher's creative style reflects his comedic and outspoken personality. Both of these students don't constrict themselves to the trends of today, but rather let their true selves come out in what they wear. Their advice for the majority of the school? "Just be yourself."

Not being afraid to be a little different makes for one unique girl: Annetta Phillips', 11, individual style catches attention in the drab hallways. Her style consists of layers of flowing, comfortable skirts, or fitted faded jeans, and pretty and colorful shirts and sweaters. She tops off her outfits with hip head bands and simple, but bold, jewelry.