What is your style of music? To find out the top music types, top radio stations, and top music downloading sites are 83 students were surveyed. Music has changed dramatically from boy bands to solo punk artists, from hip hop to rock, and many others. Music plays a big role in society today. Music influences the people of tomorrow, and can be used to educate and form opinions.

"Music is the background of our lives," said Jessica Zanger, 11.

One student felt that music has changed within the past couple of years.

"I think that in the year 2002 we saw a dramatic change in the music industry. Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera traded their 'bubble-gum' pop look for a more 'adult' image. Boy bands also took a back seat as the music industry saw a significant overhaul with punk/ alternative rock taking stage. Never before had small label independent bands been in such abundance on the top 100 charts. These changes, however, seemed to disturb regular punk/ alternative concert goers as they started to see more and more preteens showing up with their parents and ultimately ruining the hard-edge experience of a rock concert. I just hope that in the coming years we will find the industry becoming more stable and back to the way things were," said Molly Finn, 11.

Many bands or groups are splitting up or going their own way. These include Justin Timberlake of N'SYNC. Music plays a huge part in our lives. Music tells stories and creates a mental image in someone's mind.

"My favorite type of music is punk because the artist really express their feelings like the group Punk Covers," said Adam Zinnecker, 11.

From R&B to rap to hip hop, no matter what type of music you like, the music you listen to reflects your personality and your style.
