1. Getting a quick hug, Jill Sanchez, 11, and Dan Schoenberger, 11, on the way to class. This couple might have a serious relationship, and any one walking to class would see that as well. Treating each other with respect is an important part of a relationship.

"I think it's great that people have relationships in school. I think that if people want to express themselves, after school is the best time,"
Drew Hooper, 9.

2. Holding on tight, Tabby Essary-Pope, 9, and Tony Kalberg, 9, get their share of PDA between the bells. Dating the people in our school is great and many people involved themselves in such a relationship. Only being freshman, this relationship still has time to grow.
