

1. It's Barbie and Skipper. No, that is Ms. Courtney Gelter and Mrs. Chris Allen dressing up with the senior class for Halloween. 2. Gobble, gobble. In Thanksgiving Day spirit Mr. Mike Gutekunst assists Mr. Greg Presnall in an experiment during one of his classes before Thanksgiving break. 3. Joining in on the fun. The staff decided to join in on the Homecoming parade by having a float of their own. 4. And the winners are... Mrs. Diane Kasarda announces the winners to the History Fair. Kasarda and Mrs. Rosemary Ennis worked very hard to reformat the History Fair. Nine students won the state History Fair and six went on to compete at the National History Fair.

"The struggle you have grappled with and won...molds you as a community and makes your future,"

-Mr. Brian Conatser, Science

Time out for fun

By Katie Hooper

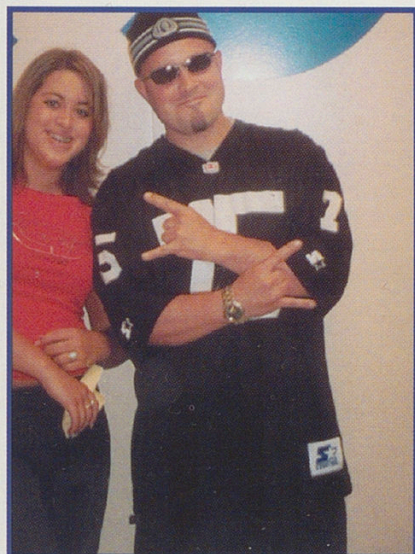

Watch your eyes, Mrs. Margaret Stone blasts out with bright colors and wicked designs. All that on Tie-Dye Day, where the students got to create a shirt of their own. After the shirts are all said and done, the official wearing of the shirts brightened up the school.

"There are many distractions for our students- if we don't make our classes interesting we don't have a chance to help them learn!"

Mr. Breen Reardon

Gangsta or Wanksta? Ghetto fabulous, Mr. Brien Miller, spiced up his history classes with some free styling of his own. Relating to teens such as Rosie Bernstein, 12, helped to keep interest on the subject. Even though he won't be signing a record label anytime soon, his students learned more about history.

Horton

Although these days seem like the best in your life, hang on because the best is yet to come. Be smart and enjoy the ride!