"Throughout High School I put a lot of time and energy into soccer and it paid off,"

Jeff Johnson

Future All-Stars

1. The all American, Alex Moore, decided to head off to Ball State for football. Showing off his talent, saved him a spot on next years team.

2. Heading home, Erin Mullen batted her way to Belmont University. Being competitive is what those coaches liked seeing.

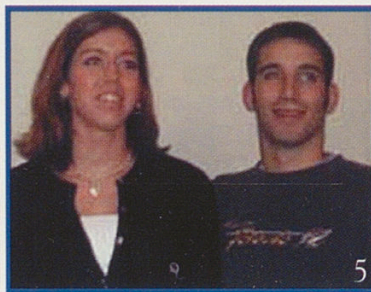

3. Racing down the court, Steven Kennedy, made his way into Wooster College. Knowing the game for many years insured his spot as a starting position.

4. What a shiner, Drew Roberts caught the pitch that Xavier University threw at him. Being close to home will be nice for this down to earth boy.

5. After the signing, Matt Meinberg, and Stephanie Everett, made plans on heading to the University of Toledo and the University of Virginia.

Stop Watch: Tomorrow's Athletes

The next generation. After playing sports for as long as they could remember many of the athletes had the opportunity to sign with colleges. From Jaclyn Tameris signing with Indiana University to play water polo, to Brad Neumann signing to run at the University of Cincinnati, the senior class had many accomplished athletes.

"I am really excited to play softball at Belmont," said Erin Mullen.

Baseball gave way to both Drew Roberts and Matt Meinberg who signed with Xavier University and University of Toledo, respectively. Wright State signed both Danielle DiMasso for diving, and Ryan Klasmeier for swimming.

As our future continues to come at a rapid pace, look for the names of these sports stars as they try to make a name for themselves.
