Anxiously waiting. Tracy Hodgson and Eric Shrimpton take a gander at all the food that is awaiting them. Mom's were able to get all different kinds of sub sandwiches, cookies, brownies, chips, fruits, and vegetables for the students. Lunch was served around 11:30 AM and right afterward the games continued.

Stop Watch: Senior Picnic

Rainy day in the park. Despite the drizzling, gloomy atmosphere, the seniors made the most of their day at GE Park. Things to do ranged from foursquare to tug-of-war, to dancing under the shelter along with the music produced by DJ Sneakers. The buses departed from the high school at 9:30 AM and arrived back around 1:30 PM. Many moms joined in to make this day as special as possible for their soon to be graduated children.

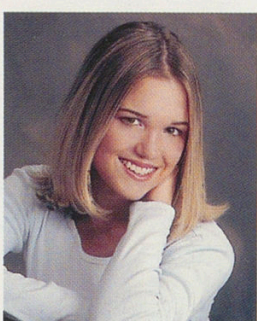

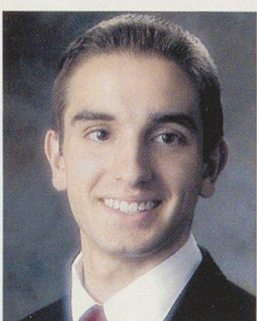

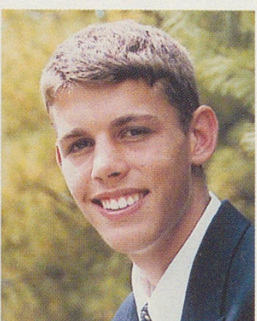

"The rain almost didn't have any affect on us because we all just continued as usual. People even started wrestling in the mud, which was just hilarious," said Anne Willis.

Disregarding any past conflicts, the senior class of 2003, bonded together and enjoyed one another's company. Throughout lunch elementary schools were called for an updated picture.

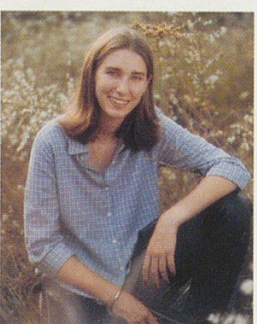

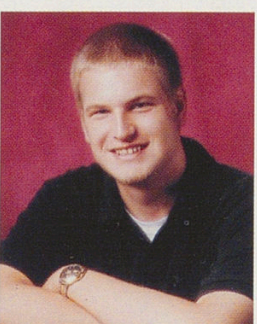

"It was really interesting to look around at the Montgomery Elementary picture and see how much we've all changed throughout these years," said Whitney Pottschmidt.

Showing off their skills. Robin Zuend and Eric Innis have fun at the foursquare court while their friends watch.

"Foursquare was a lot of fun to play at the picnic because I haven't played it since elementary school," said Liz Tracy.
