Just a routine shuttle take-off turned into what no one expected to be a day of tragedy. Seven astronauts were taken down with The Columbia after it's sudden explosion 40 miles above Earth. The victims were commander Rick Husband; pilot William McCool; payload commander Michael Anderson; mission specialists David Brown, Laurel Clark and Kalpana Chawla; and Israel's first astronaut, Ilan Ramon. Ironically, this tragedy was one week after the 17th anniversary of the crash of the space shuttle Challenger. Just before the explosion, the shuttle's temperature raised 60 degrees in 5 minutes.
