We have come through our first two years at the University to start on a more important period of our development. Our ambitions are high, for we feel that, as Sophomores, we are at once the most important and the luckiest class of the school.

We are the most important, because to us is now handed the sacred obligation of carrying on the work and aspirations of the student body that further development of the spirit of democratic fellowship, friendship, and co-operation. We are the luckiest, because we, and we alone, have two years of happy memories to look back upon, and two years of work and pleasure before us.

With the achievement of our predecessors as a spur, may we continue to uphold the ideals and traditions of McMicken in a worthy manner.

RICHARD W. FRANZ,
President, Class of 1929.
