

October 23—CINCINNATI, 7; OHIO UNIVERSITY, 38

The Ohio U. Bobcats handed the Red and Black her second defeat of the year and what defeat it was! The Bearcats trekked to Athens with high hopes of reversing the result of the first B. A. A. tilt, but the Athenians had other plans for our boys. Following a scoreless first period, the Bobcats cut loose with a phenomenal offense that netted six touchdowns, during the balance of the game. The Ohio backs tore Cincy's line to shreds and gained ground almost at will. The Bearcats were saved from a shutout when Bill Gervers intercepted a pass in the third stanza and raced 75 yards for a touchdown.

Cincinnati was handicapped by injuries that kept Borneman, Dost, and Herzig out of the starting line-up and forced the retirement of three other men. Their presence could have made little difference in the final score, however.

Gervers put up a fine all-round game until forced out by his bad shoulder, while Al Mayer and Ed Williams looked best on the defense, if it could be called that.

The entire Ohio backfield performed like world beaters, "Pete" McKinley and Jack Robeson being especially brilliant. Serano, Shaffer, and Larry Jarvie starred on the Bobcat line.
