The Braune Civils Society is a student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. It is composed of students enrolled in the Civil Engineering classes of the College of Engineering.

The object of the organization is the presentation of programs which will relieve the student's mind of its ordinary technical routine. This object is reached through the medium of non-technical talks given by men of local prominence, at which the students need not take notes.

The year's program is culminated with a gala banquet for all the civil engineering students and alumni.
