

Emancipation

HISTORY tells us of the persistent effort of the human family in all ages, to free itself from the fetters of various circumstances considered and accepted as barriers to progress.

Contact and communication, desirable as enlightening influences, were dependent upon transportation facilities until the advent of the telephone, which provided a way for instantaneous verbal interchange of thought between individuals of various communities, first local, then national, now international.

Thus has the Telephone released us from the yoke of limited contact by the opening of the highway of speech.
