

MERTON J. HUBERT

Dean of the College of Liberal Arts

THE College of Liberal Arts performs a two-fold service: it prepares its students for entrance upon professional courses or upon graduate work in the arts and sciences; and it endeavors to make their lives more useful to the community and to themselves. For the community will profit if they are trained to think independently, to analyze, to judge true values from false; they themselves will profit if they acquire an interest in learning for its own sake, a glimpse of the joys of higher education, a recognition of the fact that life should not consist of mere money-getting, but should be lived more richly and fully. To attain these ends, the College of Liberal Arts is dedicated.
