

1930

Archery

MYRTLE DEBECK.....W. A. A. Manager

ARCHERY IS FAST COMING into its own in the athletic curriculum on the campus. The large target surrounded by a number of the fairer sex is a familiar sight on any clear fall or spring afternoon. The obvious reason for this sport's growing popularity is the fact that it gives excellent training in accuracy of vision—a training well worth one's while.

A certain number of daily practices are pre-requisite to participation in the two league tournaments, one of which takes place in the fall, the other in the spring. Furthermore, a girl must compete in both tournaments in order to obtain points under W. A. A. ruling. In these tournaments six representatives, one from each league, shoot at one time and after four rounds the separate scores of the individual members of the leagues are added together. In the fall tournament the Vikings once more emerged victorious, the highest individual score being that of Virginia Ebert.

