We don't know what Color Day is all about, but apparently these young ladies do. Probably the objects they are holding are scalps, but we're not certain.

The new Y Building is about the best thing we've seen around here in a long time—if it only were not a Y Building. This is a Friday night dance.

A little more of Color Day and a little more of "Sittin' Pretty." Doesn't Mary Belle Shriner go about it in a natural way.
