ELECTIONS COME APACE

"The old order changeth"—whoever said it must have had the fall elections in mind—but oh! what a change!! "And the women were the cause of it all." Campaigning in October of this past year seemed different—in fact it was different—from that of the past. There were none of the fair "?" co-eds in the political meetings, but the political meetings went on just the same—yet not the same. For who can doubt that the absence of the Varsity females in politics took more than a little zest from the fray? Still—when the Women's Pan passed a law, so be it. Thus we had left merely the male coterie. We wondered how they would do it, if they would do it—and they did it.

Two parties were organized each under the illusion that their men were the best. Fortunately, the combines didn't sit back and rest on that assumption, but worked untiringly as though for unknown candidates. The Student Progressive Party composed mainly of the Lambda Chis, Sig Alphas, Sig Etes, Delts, Pi Kaps, and I. X. Es had a goodly number of candidates to offer. For officers of the senior class, they nominated: Bill Popp, President, Richard Vreeland, Treasurer; of the Junior Class, John Griffiths, President, Allen Walsh, Treasurer; of the Sophomore Class, Ed. Sidinger, President, George Kramer, Treasurer; of the Freshman Class, Bill Koolage and Arnold Majoewski. They chose Dave Eckert as the Law School candidate for Student Council.

On the other hand, we had the Student Independent faction, made up of the Phi Delts, Sigma Chis, A. T. Os, Beta Kappas, and the Dorm. Not that this group radically opposed forementioned candidates, but possibly to show that they too wielded power on this campus, so they nominated the following candidates: Senior Class, Herb Starick and Roy Lance; Junior Class, Bud Rose and Lawson Whitesides; Sophomore Class, Bob Benham and John Hart; and Freshman Class, Ike Simmons and Nick Ott. This group believed that Paul Grischy was the most plausible man to represent the Law School in Student Council.

Whether the electioneering and voting was carried out to our unquestionable moral scruples or not, we could not assume the responsibility of quotation. However, we can state that the officers elected are of "our very best." At the "Victory" Brawl, we were informed of the following successes: Senior Class: Herb Starick, Mildred Eichert, Helen Breese and Roy Lance. Junior Class: John Griffiths, Morton Brown, Ellen Peters, and Lawson Whitesides. Sophomore Class: Charles Patton, Sally Harkness, Caroline White and George Kramer. Freshman Class: William Koolage, Elinor Small, Ruth Davies and Arnold Majoewski. The Law School representative elected to Student Council was Paul Grischy. Thus passed politics from the campus forever . . .
