

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

The season of 1930-31 has been the banner year for intramural athletics. The fraternities have organized 100 per cent strong and practically every branch of intramurals undertaken has seen a wide range and high grade of competition. In addition, the dormitory has entered teams in every sport, and the independents have also been well represented.

Under the guiding hand of Charles "Chick" Mileham, competitive leagues have been organized, and therefore group championships are competed for, as well as the university titles. Thus there were three basketball leagues, three baseball leagues, three water-basketball leagues, and two sections in indoor and outdoor track. Group championships are decided in these leagues. The addition of volleyball and bowling to the program has resulted in the participation of even more men than usual. In the future these new branches will probably be much more widely engaged in.

The year's competition has been very keen in all sports. As we go to press, the Beta Kappas lead in the race for the all-year trophy, with several other teams, Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta and Lambda Chi, pressing them closely for honors.
