

Women's Athletics, April

MINOR SPORTS

Fencing

Golf

In the spring the fancy of the athletic girl on the campus turns to thoughts of archery, golf, water, basketball, tennis, fencing, baseball and riding. The warm weather brings many of the underclass co-eds outside in their green bloomers to try their hands with the bow and arrow, the bat and the racquet. But some girls prefer the privacy and the coolness of the swimming pool, as shown below. "Big girls on the campus should confine their athletics to the seclusion of the women's gym," says the newly-elected prom queen. "How do you think I would ever have been elected queen of the prom if I had let the boys know that I am an athletic girl," she adds.

Water Basketball

