Co-op Skip

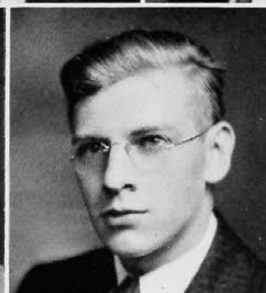

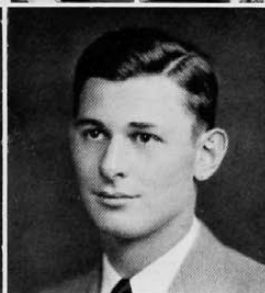

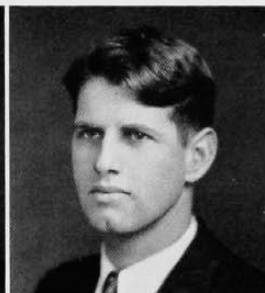

The Engine House in full array—there were a few gentlemen present. Again reverting to the undignified name of "Skip" and discarding elegant "Ball," the engineers, in spite of depression, held the only financially successful campus affair, net profits sixty-seven cents. Way off in one corner the distant boom of great guns (bursting lily cups) was almost successful in entirely obliterating the orchestra and was successful in making the floor skid proof. Ever onward, Engineers, never may an L. A. place a blot upon your family escutcheon.
