

Scabbard and Blade Pledge at the Military Ball

Military Ball

Let every man who can beg, borrow or steal a uniform don it, however it may fit, and come to the Military Ball. As usual the Military Ball was well attended, did I say well attended? Forsooth, it was clammering. Although it amounted to a survival of the fittest, everyone seemed fittest. The Gym was festooned in Red, White and Blue, —Scarlet, Gold and Purple—nay, every color of the rainbow. The band, which was barely audible above the din, might have been good. At the stroke of mid-night the Honorary Colonel, a bit scotch, was presented. Scabbard and Blade summoned after which, those who were able continued to struggle while those who were not retired for nourishment. The ball was a "Howling" success.
