

THE WESTERN JOURNAL

OF THE

MEDICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES.

THIS Medical Quarterly commenced by Dr. DRAKE in the year 1827, and now in its 11th volume, is edited and published by the Faculty, on the first days of April, July, October and January. The four numbers make a volume of about 650 pages. All subscriptions are by the volume, the price of which is three dollars, if paid during its publication—or four dollars if paid afterwards. All letters of business must be post paid. The notes of solvent banks of the states in which the subscribers respectively reside, may be remitted by mail, at the risk of the publishers.

The Faculty receive eight European journals by the packets and the mail, and are thus enabled to give early intelligence of European discoveries.

They respectfully solicit from their medical brethren in the West and South, contributions of every kind for publication.
